Women's Watchcare Network Log

Lynn Frost

The 1994 Women's Watchcare Log marks the fifth year the Women's Project has monitored bias-related incidents in Arkansas. We believe that violence by white people against people of color, by gentiles against Jews or Protestants against Catholics, by men against women, by heterosexuals against gay men and lesbians, etc., is institutionally supported violence because the perpetrating groups have power over the institutions of our society and control their policies, while the targeted groups do not have access to full institutional support for their lives.

As we prepare this log, the Judiciary Committee of the Arkansas House of Representatives is considering whether or not to send a proposed Hate Crimes Bill to the full House for a vote.

Those opposing this legislation voice one of two reasons for doing so:

(1) because they believe hate crimes are no different from other crimes, therefore enhanced penalties are not necessary, or

(2) because it includes lesbians and gay men and they think this will expose their children to homosexuals.

Those opposing with the first argument believe there is nothing different about a crime committed out of hatred. We believe there is a difference in crimes where people are attacked because they are part of a group that is the target of bias and discrimination.

We can only surmise the other opponents believe that including sexual orientation to describe a class of persons to be protected by a hate crimes law (along with race, religion, gender, etc.) would somehow cause gay men and lesbians to become more visible. Or that the victims are not victims because they "deserve" the crime based on their sexuality.

In the February 1995 issue of Vanity Fair magazine there is a 10-page article detailing the brutal murders of eight gay men in Texas since April of 1993. Ten of the thirteen arrested in these cases are teenagers.

In his confession to homicide detectives, which filled 103 pages when it was transcribed, convicted murderer Donald Aldrich said, "You could say I got a little bit of pleasure out of it." He decided to openly express his feelings about gays, stating, "if I produced the right air or the right attitude, knowing how a lot of the cops felt towards gays...it might get some of the charges dropped...I thought it might help me get a lesser sentence or a lesser charge."

He miscalculated and as investigators listened to Donald Aldrich, as they heard him laugh over the victim's humiliation and suffering, and watched Aldrich's body language, they saw not a man who was posturing but a man who truly had difficulty understanding why the victim really was a victim. As one investigator said, "He's not perceiving he's doing anything wrong, because this is a fag. This is not a store owner or a preacher. This is a fag."

Most of the Texas murders, preceded by torture, were committed by teenagers. These young men were not born with this kind of hate in them. They learned to hate homosexuals. Along with words like "nigger," they learned words like "fag" and "dyke." And where did they learn this hatred? At home, in school, and yes, even in church. Warren Chisum, a state legislator from Pampa, Texas, describes homosexuality as "demeaning to the natural nature of man. I mean, animals don't do that."

In a nationwide study of 152 murders of homosexuals between 1992 and 1994, as reported in the Boston Globe, December 21, 1994, almost 60% involved "extraordinary violence" and "overkill." These deaths were characterized by dismemberments, multiple stabbings and severe bludgeoning, reflecting "extreme hatred or disgust on the part of the perpetrator." The study was done by a consortium of 23 anti-violence organizations in 30 states—including the Women's Project in Little Rock—and coordinated by the New York City Gay and Lesbian Anti-Violence Project. The report, culled from police and news media reports, blamed the excessively violent killings on "messages of hate" and intolerance toward gays.

The inevitable extension of this rhetoric of hate is the violence of hate. Children grow up believing it is right to despise a particular group of people, that they are justified in harassing them on the street and, if that escalates to even greater violence, they often relish the obvious terror they create in their victims. They are emboldened by the firm conviction that the Bible and their Lord Jesus are on their side. They are so sure of the rightness of their cause that they do not even bother to hide their identity, and often brag about their deeds.

It is important to remember that hate crimes are not random acts... Violence and threats of violence are a key way to keep people from seeking their full civil rights.

We believe that crimes based on hatred of the victim are equally vicious and dehumanizing when they happen to racial and religious minorities, people with disabilities and women. In 1993, the FBI found 7,684 hate crimes reported in a survey of only 56% of the U.S.

population. These statistics did not include gender as one of the motivating factors that can turn an "ordinary" crime into a hate crime.

The Women's Watchcare Network is one of the few groups in the country that documents gender-based violence, and last year gender-based violence was included in the crime bill passed by Congress. It is included in the proposed Arkansas legislation as well. This is important in that it forces us to take violence against women more seriously in this society where a rapist is more likely to escape conviction than a car thief.

It goes without saying that racial violence continues to be a steady pulse in this country. Also, according to the Anti-Defamation League, anti-semitic acts increased by 10% last year.

It is important to remember that hate crimes are not random acts. They target a person because of who she or he is; because of what she or he is taken to represent. As a result, entire communities are terrorized, provoking community unrest and retaliatory crimes. Violence and threats of violence are a key way to keep people from seeking their full civil rights.

We do this work because we believe that all people's lives should be free from violence.

The Women's Watchcare Network

The Women's Watchcare Network, formed in 1989, is a statewide project made up of more than 200 volunteers who bring their hope for social justice into the work of clipping newspaper reports of violence, organizing community discussion groups, staffing data collection, and responding, often at considerable risk, to acts of violence against people of color, Jews, Catholics, women, lesbians and gay men.

The Women's Watchcare Network has five purposes:

1. to monitor the activities of white supremacist groups such as the Ku Klux Klan, the activities of the religious Right, and individual acts of racist, religious, sexist and anti-lesbian/gay violence;
2. to organize community responses to this violence in an effort to end it and create a society where all people can live in wholeness and safety;
3. to work with communities to provide support for victims of biased violence;
4. to provide community education about the nature of biased violence and systemic oppression;
5. to work to change the institutions in this society that give us policies and values which create a climate fostering such violence.

About The Women's Watchcare Network Log

The Women's Watchcare Network Log, published annually, is a documentation of sexist, racist, homophobic and religious violence, the activities of the religious Right, and the activities of organized hate groups in Arkansas.

Our log only contains information that we can verify by naming the source. We have chosen this route to avoid getting into the debate over the truthfulness of our information.

While this approach simplifies matters on one hand, it also means that if a victim of a hate crime is the source of information (rather than a published report in a newspaper) and does not wish for his or her name to be divulged at any time to any person, we are unable to use the information. This approach results in verifiable information but also means that there are many incidents of bias violence that then go unreported by us.

The sources of information that we use for the log are all available to the public by reading newspapers, mailings from groups that are being monitored, talking with police and prosecutors, and developing relationships with community volunteers.

The Women's Watchcare Network is not an undercover network. We operate the Watchcare Network with the assumption that our work is being monitored by others.

All incidents are listed by the date of the first report to appear in the media. The newspaper cited most often is the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, which is listed as AD-G.

Sexist Murders of Women

We do not log cases of rape, incest, abduction, battering or terroristic threatening of women. We do not document murders of women where robbery or drugs were the precipitating factors and we do not document murders of women by other women.

This log reflects the murders of 69 Arkansas women and girls in 1994. This represents a 27% increase from 1993. Of the 69 women murdered, 42 were killed by men who were known to them.

Greenfield, January 5

Cara Bess Hatley, 30, was shot in the head with a semiautomatic weapon as she sat in her car.

According to police, Bart Evans, 34, shot Hatley just as she and a friend, Teracia Traynom, 23, pulled into his driveway. At the time of his arrest, Evans said he shot Hatley because "she was a devil worshiper." Police also reported that Evans said Hatley had put a hex on him.

Evans received a 25-year prison sentence after pleading guilty to first-degree murder. A prosecutor's spokesman said a negotiated plea was arranged that included the dismissal of one aggravated assault charge for shooting at Traynom. Evans previously had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

Union Chapel, January 9

Felecia Payne, 29, was shot once in the abdomen with a Mack 11, 9 mm handgun.

Michael Clemmons, 20, and Derrick Mitchell, 24, were charged with first-degree murder, first-degree battery, aggravated assault and being accomplices.

Mitchell was arrested at his home, where he was found asleep with a Mack 11 with 16 rounds in a 30-round clip and one round in the chamber. There was a smoke grenade beside the bed.

Mitchell was sentenced to 40 years in prison for first-degree murder, 20 years for first-degree battery, and six years for aggravated assault.

Little Rock, January 10

The body of Teresa Grays, 28, was found in the yard of a residence at 2026 18th St. She had been stabbed once in the chest.

James Charles Williams, 39, was arrested and charged with first-degree murder. Police confiscated a 7-inch knife they believe was used in the stabbing.

Neighbors reported hearing a woman screaming and looked out their windows to see a woman lying on the ground. Police followed a trail of blood to Williams' room.

Williams told police that Grays had come to his apartment to have sex in exchange for crack cocaine. He claimed that she struck him once in the head with a bottle during an argument.

Records show that Williams was convicted in 1984 for the stabbing death of his brother and sentenced to 13 years in prison, but released in 1992 for good behavior.

1/10-1/11, 1/15: AD-G

West Memphis, January 24

Mary Stinnett, 35, was found dead in a vacant apartment shortly after police received a call. The caller told police two people were seen carrying what looked like a body into the vacant apartment.

According to West Memphis police, William Harper, also known as "William Shaw Cuai", was found guilty and sentenced to 15 years in prison.

1/24: Evening Times

Houston, January 29

Kathleen Meredith, 38, was tied to her bed and shot to death by her ex-husband, who then killed himself.

Police found Meredith's body and the body of her ex-husband, Richard Rogers, 26, at their home off Arkansas 113. Kathleen Meredith was found with her hands and legs tied to the bed and a bullet hole in her right temple. Richard Rogers was found nearby with a bullet hole under his chin in the throat area. He was holding a .38-caliber pistol. Meredith and Rogers were divorced in December 1993 and friends said that Rogers had been causing problems for Meredith since the divorce.

1/29-2/2: AD-G; Conway County Petit Jean Country Headlight;

North Little Rock, January 30

Police found the body of Kendria LaShawn

Broadway, 17, at the home of her boyfriend.

Anthony Abernathy, 23, called police from a pay phone a block from his residence and told them he and his girlfriend had argued and she was hurt. Broadway was dead when police and ambulance services got to Abernathy's house.

After further investigation, police arrested Abernathy and charged him with first-degree murder in the apparent beating death of Broadway. Abernathy confessed to hitting her with his fists and kicking her with the steel-toed boots he was wearing.

During Abernathy's trial, an associate state medical examiner said that Broadway died from "multiple blunt-force injuries". He was convicted of first-degree murder and was sentenced to life in prison.

1/30-2/2,2/23-2/25/95: AD-G

Forrest City, February 1

Dallas Humphrey, 36, was shot once with a .22-caliber pistol during a confrontation with an ex-boyfriend while visiting a friend's house..

Bobby Sykes, 33, who shot himself in the back of the head after shooting Humphrey was charged with first-degree murder.

Police found Sykes lying on the kitchen floor with a gun in his hand. He was taken to Memphis Regional Medical Center where he was listed in critical condition.

Sykes pleaded guilty to first-degree murder and was sentenced to 25 years in prison.

1/31-2/1: AD-G; Times-Herald

Ozark, February 17

The body of Virginia Rains, 43, was found along with two other bodies in the rubble of a burned house.

According to police, Rains' ex-husband, Bill Rains, 57, shot her three times and shot George Meador, 49, once with a small-caliber pistol before setting her rental house on fire and apparently committing suicide while the house burned.

Police found a .25-caliber semiautomatic handgun in the ashes of the house. Police also found letters in which Rains detailed his plans to murder Virginia and kill himself. These letters were addressed to several relatives and a minister and were given to a relative to mail if Rains failed to return to his home. The letters made no mention of Meador.

Bill Rain's pickup truck was found 1 1/2 blocks from the house. Meador's car was found about four blocks from the house.

Jonesboro, February 22

Bridgett Ann Nosser, 23, was shot in the face with a 16-gauge shotgun by her husband, James Edward Nosser, 25.

According to police, the call was initially phoned in to police as a suicide, but "evidence at the scene depicted to officers that this may be other than suicide."

Witnesses said Nosser and his wife had argued before the shooting and Nosser threatened to "blow her head off." Nosser told Detective Scott Roper he thought the shotgun was not loaded.

Nosser pleaded guilty to first-degree murder and was sentenced to 40 years in prison.

2/22-9/10: Jonesboro Sun

Little Rock, February 23

Tommie Wilbarger, 34, was shot with a .357-caliber magnum by her ex-boyfriend.

Earl Edward Smith, 40, of Fordyce, gave a taped statement to police admitting that he shot Wilbarger. Police charged him with capital murder

According to police, Wilbarger left Geyer Springs Elementary, where she was a teacher's aide, at approximately 8:30 a.m with Smith and never returned. Smith said he shot Wilbarger, left her body in his car as he drove to Conway and back, checked into a motel and went to a movie. He said he later wrapped the body in motel bed linens and dumped it in a bin at an apartment complex.

When police searched the dumpster in which Smith said he had disposed of Wilbarger's body, they found it had already been emptied. Police had to sift through 300,000 pounds of soggy garbage at a landfill over several days to locate parts of Wilbarger's body.

Smith pleaded guilty and was sentenced under a conditional plea agreement to serve life in prison for a reduced charge of first-degree murder.

2/23-8/31, 1/15: AD-G

Lewisville, February 23

May Dell Robinson, 70s, died from stab wounds to the back of the head in her home. She had also been strangled according to police investigators.

According to the county sheriff, there was no sign of forced entry and nothing was missing from the home. Police surmise that Robinson allowed someone in her home that night to use the telephone and felt comfortable doing so.

Eddie Gilbert, who lived with Robinson during the past year, called police about 10:45 p.m. after he found Robinson's body on the living room floor. Gilbert's name was removed from a list of suspects after he passed a polygraph test.

Police are still waiting information from the state Crime Laboratory.

2/23-3/2: AD-G; Texarkana Gazette

Springdale, February 24

The body of Cynthia Joan Beal, 39, was found in a drainage ditch. According to police, she had been strangled, stabbed and beaten.

Due to decomposition of the body, the medical examiner was unable to determine which of the injuries caused Beal's death or whether she had been sexually assaulted. Police said the stab wounds had been caused by a small knife, possibly a pocket knife.

Beal had been reported missing to the Rogers Police Department December 7th; she had not been seen alive since Nov. 30th. Beal was identified by her fingerprints.

Chief Gary Payne said police have a suspect who is an acquaintance of Beal.

Fayetteville, March 6

Joyce Sue Smith, 26, was killed with a .22-caliber pistol by Michael Wayne Sheeler, 36.

When police arrived, Sheeler, who said he didn't know the gun was loaded, was trying to give cardiopulmonary resuscitation to Smith. Police charged him with second-degree-murder and bond was set at $25,000.

Witness reports said Smith and Sheeler exchanged heated words during a "beer-drinking" game.

Sheeler was sentenced to 10 years in prison after he pleaded guilty to second-degree murder.

Hot Springs, March 8

The nude badly decomposed body of Lisa Grizzard, 17, was found by four boys near a shallow creek behind a school.

Grizzard was last seen by her mother in October and reported as a runaway. The decomposition of the body was so advanced that determining the cause of death proved difficult. Police said there were no leads, suspects or motives in Grizzard's death.

3/8-4/1: AD-G; The Sentinel-Record

Hope, March 15

Elizabeth Cheryl Smith, 28, was shot by her husband, Vincent Lee Smith, 31, who then shot and killed himself.

The couple's 10-year-old son heard the shots and called a neighbor, who found the bodies.

3/14-3/15: AD-G; Hope Star

Little Rock, March 16

The body of Sunday Stanfield, 30, was found by her brother in the basement of an unoccupied house with two gunshot wounds to the head.

Billy Pike, 40, also known as Bill Charles Phillips, was arrested and charged with capital murder. According to an eyewitness, Pike had been smoking crack before he killed Stanfield. He accused her of taking money from him, and beat her with the butt of a pistol. The witness told police Pike said, "Bitch, you're going to serve me," and then raped Stanfield and forced her to perform oral sex.

Pike was convicted in 1984 of manslaughter in the shooting death of Samuel Goodman and served 2 1/2 years of an eight year sentence. In 1987, Pike was acquitted of a first-degree murder charge in another shooting.

3/16-5/3, 1/15: AD-G

Newport, April 13

Pamela K. Adams, 25, died from a single gunshot wound to the right side of the head from a .410-gauge shotgun.

Daniel J. McFadden, 18, Adam's boyfriend, was charged with first-degree murder in Adams' death.

Officers recovered the gun at Adams' home.

4/13-14: AD-G, Newport Daily Independent

Hot Springs, April 18

Geraldine Brizendine, 37, and her fiance, Robert Wallace, 39, were shot and killed by Paul Hauser, 34, with a 9mm handgun.

Hauser, who was Brizendine's ex-boyfriend, apparently rammed his car into the back of the car Brizendine and Wallace were in, causing it to spin in the roadway. He then approached the car and shot Wallace as he got out of the car. Hauser shot Brizendine several times as she sat in the passenger seat.

Hauser then walked into the woods and killed himself. According to Hauser's father, Hauser had been in love with Brizendine and was very upset that she was planning to marry another man.

4/18-19: AD-G; The Sentinel-Record

Little Rock, April 28

The body of Geneva Watson, 42, was found in a bedroom closet of her home by a friend.

Bobbie Jordan told police that she became worried when she had not heard from Watson for an entire day, and went to Watson's house. Jordan said she knew something was wrong when she found her friend's house in a mess.

Police believe Watson was strangled and found no sign of forced entry. Police also said Watson's 1984 280ZX was missing. It was later found in a parking lot at 16th and IZard Streets.

A warrant was issued for James Bennie "J.B." Lay, 43, on charges of capital murder in Watson's death.

4/28-5/8, 1/15: AD-G

Mountain Home, May 1

Elsie Slead, 53, was shot by her husband with a .22-caliber handgun at the couple's home.

According to police, Eldon L. Slead, 69, shot his wife and then shot himself several hours later.

5/1: AD-G

Campbell, MO, May 4

Mary Benefield, 68, was shot with a .38-caliber revolver.

Police found Benefield's body and the body of Clifford Redmon, 73, in Benefield's 1984 GMC van. Benefield's body was found slumped over the driver's seat with her head laying in the floor.

According to a resident of the nearby apartments, the two were sitting in the van with the engine running when she saw the light come on inside the van. She said, "All at once, the man sitting in the passenger seat pulled out a gun from someplace and shot the woman. Then right afterwards, he put the gun up to his head and shot himself."

Police said several people had seen the couple earlier in the evening arguing and Redmon had pulled a knife on Benefield.

5/4: Piggott Times

Fort Smith, May 4

Marcia Sims, 21, was strangled to death.

Police charged her husband, John Sims, 25, and Alan Doering, 30, with capital murder. According to police, Sims offered Doering $15,000 to assist him in killing his wife. Capt. J.C. Ryder said Sims planned the murder to collect his wife's life insurance policy, of which he was the primary beneficiary.

Sims initially told police that he came home and found his wife's body partially clothed on the bed, but police found no evidence of forced entry. In an affidavit, Sims told police that insurance money was the reason for the murder. Doering admitted aiding Sims in relocating the body after the murder.

John Sims and Alan Doering are scheduled for trial April 10, 1995.

5/4-5/12: AD-G; Southwest Times Record; Times Record

Fort Smith, May 4

The body of Gloria Ward, 51, was found bludgeoned to death in an alley near an abandoned building by police. The Sebastian County coroner said Ward suffered bruises on her head, back and upper body consistent with a beating.

Police charged Scotty "Scooter" McDaniel Thomas, 45, Ward's boyfriend, with first-degree murder after he allegedly used a cab to try to dispose of Ward's body. A witness said Ward and Thomas argued just hours before the body was found.

Thomas pleaded innocent to the charge of second-degree murder. At the time of his arrest, Thomas was in violation of his 1991 parole. He had been convicted in 1981 for killing his roommate with a skillet.

Thomas was sentenced to 20 years in prison with five years suspended. His sentence will run concurrently with the 1981 murder sentence.

Heber Springs, May 4

Shirley Carter, 56, was shot with a .22-caliber semiautomatic pistol.

Police charged Etheridge Leon "Bill" Carter, 68, with first-degree murder. Carter was released on $25,000 bond, which was then rescinded pending a psychiatric evaluation. Trial was set to begin on Nov. 28. Carter was found competent to stand trial and was released on bond. He was granted a change of venue to Fulton County for trial during the week of January 9th. On January 3rd, Carter's trial was rescheduled for January 30th.

Shirley Carter was the third of Carter's wives to die in four years under strange circumstances. Linda Carter, 52, died from a gunshot wound to the head in 1992. Carter said she shot herself. Louise Carter, 63, drowned in Greers Ferry Lake while fishing with Carter, who said she had fallen into the water. One of Carter's sons said that his mother told him that she woke up one night and Bill Carter was standing over her holding a .22 caliber semiautomatic rifle.

Shirley and Bill Carter had been married for nine months at the time of the shooting. Bill Carter was found guilty and given a life sentence.

Batesville, June 4

Rita Passmore, 29, was shot as she sat in a car.

According to police, Passmore and a passenger, Mark Williams, 21, were driving north on U.S. 167 when shots were fired at them from another car. The two cars were stopped on the highway's shoulder facing opposite directions when Passmore was shot.

Larry Earl Esmeyer, 48, was charged with capital murder in the death of Passmore. According to Lt. Marshall Taylor, Esmeyer fired six bullets into Passmore's car, hitting her with two. The shooting apparently happened because Esmeyer became angry with the way Passmore was driving.

Esmeyer, of Possum Grape, was scheduled for trial on February 21st in the Independence County Court. He was also charged with attempted capital murder in the wounding of Williams. During a psychological evaluation at the Arkansas State Hospital, Esmeyer contended that he shot Passmore because she had a gun.

Forrest City, June 8

The body of Phyllis Coleman, 32, was found by her 11-year-old son lying in a pool of blood and naked from the waist down on a living room couch.

Coleman's throat had been slashed twice and there were numerous stab wounds to her stomach.

Police arrested Tracy Louis Peters, 25, and charged him with capital murder in the case. Peters' fingerprints were on the murder weapon recovered by police at the scene.

According to police, Peters was already in the St. Francis County jail when he was charged. He was being held for the attempted rape of a 13-year-old girl. Police said Peters entered the girl's room naked and held a butcher knife to the back of her neck. The girl was able to break free, cutting Peters on the hand in the struggle.

A trial will not be scheduled for Peters until his mental evaluation is complete.

6/6-9: Forrest City Times Herald; AD-G

West Memphis, June 9

The body of Janice Martin, 24, was found by police in an apartment.

Police also found the body of Terrance Tillman, 26, an acquaintance inside the apartment. Tillman, according to police, killed Martin and then killed himself. He left a recorded message, which helped police piece together the murder-suicide.

6/9: Evening Times

Hot Springs, June 9

The body of Beverly Sue Patrick, 52, was found by an employee in the back office of the convenience store where she worked Patrick's nude body was lying face-down and she had been bludgeoned. According to police, the office walls were covered with Patrick's blood. Due to the nature of the injuries, police were not able to determine the exact cause of death immediately, but reported she had been beaten to death.

John Wesley Howell, 35, was charged with and pleaded innocent to capital murder. Howell claims he was Patrick's boyfriend until he ended the relationship and admitted hitting her on the head several times according to an affidavit.

6/9-7/27: The Sentinel Record; AD-G

Forrest City, June 20

The naked body of Vicki Ladonna Collins-

Jackson, 28, was found nude, lying at the foot of her bed on her back with small bruises on her cheeks, nose and eyebrow. Blood was coming out of her nose and mouth.

According to police, Jerry Jackson, 32, admitted that the couple had argued earlier in the evening and that he had slapped her three times and kicked her once. About 90 minutes later Jackson made a 911 call, reporting that his wife was having trouble breathing.

Jerry Jackson was arrested and charged with second-degree murder and released on $75,000 bond.

North Little Rock, June 22

Belinda Hale, 41, died, June 13th, at University Hospital a few days after she was admitted for multiple abrasions and contusions.

According to police, Hale told family members that her boyfriend had beat her with a two-by-four. Later she returned home with bad bruises, so family members took her to the hospital. Hale was treated at the hospital and released and then re-entered the hospital after her condition worsened. By then, Hale was no longer able to talk, and police were never able to interview her before her death.

Police arrested Johnny R. Nash, 41, for Hale's death. Nash entered an innocent plea to charges of first-degree murder.

A task force to address the issue of race relations in Little Rock is battling with City Hall because members of the group do not want a new Racial and Cultural Diversity Commission to work out of City Hall. The group also refuses to share the commission employee with the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Three members of the NCCJ resigned from the race relations task force after this refusal. One of those who resigned, Alfred Williams, said, "It didn't seem like we wanted to work together anymore. If it's not done as a community, it will not be successful."

City Manager Charles Nickerson said he believed the NCCJ would be valuable to the commission and that there is a fear of working with City Hall.

Mayor Jim Lassiter is worried that the upcoming move of the United Keetoowah Band of Cherokees from Oklahoma to Arkansas will bring gaming, tobacco, and liquor stores to his town. The mayor said these fears could be alleviated if the tribe were willing to sign a written agreement promising they would not engage in these types of activities.

Cherokee Chief John Ross says the mayor's fears are unfounded and he sees no reason why the tribe should sign any type of written agreement with the city.

A federal discrimination lawsuit was filed by Capt. Richard Day, Pulaski County jail administrator, and Calvin Hollowell, the jail's official spokesperson and supervisor of several areas of the jail. Sheriff-elect Randy Johnson included the two African Americans on his list of officials not to be reappointed.

The suit claims that the captains' constitutional rights to equal protection and free speech were violated by the intended firings. Sheriff-elect Johnson, County Judge Buddy Villines, and the Pulaski County Quorum Court were named as defendants.

Hallowell and Day allege that Johnson was displeased that they had informed U.S. District Judge George Howard, Jr., of overcrowding at the county jail.

Judge Howard temporarily barred Johnson from firing Hollowell and Day and set a January 6 trial date for the suit. Johnson requested additional preparation time. The trial was rescheduled for March 13th. Howard again barred Johnson from firing the two men until the outcome of the trial.

Both Day and Hollowell have successfully sued county officials on the basis of racial discrimination. Pulaski County agreed to pay Day $7,000 in 1993 and Hollowell $150,000 in 1988.

Bias Against People with HIV & Other Disabilities

Conway, March 18

A judge ruled that the children of Lisa Mc Clung must not be in the physical presence of her brother, Anthony Bonds, because he has AIDS.

This ruling came after the father, Kim McClung, signed an affidavit alleging that his children were in danger at their mother's home. He also stated that Bonds had bruised one of the children and the child had tripped over a pole supporting an intravenous tube.

At that point Circuit-Chancery Judge Watson Villines of Conway ordered that the children be removed from the mother's home. Later, Judge Lynn Plemmons allowed the return of the children to the home but ordered they not be in physical contact with Bonds.

McClung filed a federal lawsuit contending that the judge violated the federal Americans with Disabilities Act by barring her children from their uncle. A chancery court judge ruled that the two children could have "casual contact" with their uncle. The judge's ruling left unresolved the issue of whether a court could remove children from a home of a custodial parent where a person with AIDS also lives.

U.S. District Judge Elsijane Trimble Roy dismissed McClung's lawsuit because Plemmons is no longer involved in the case.

Arkansas' Religious Right

The upsurge of the Religious Right in Arkansas is part of a disturbing trend nationally that moves beyond respect for individual religious beliefs into the creation of an agenda which attempts to impose the world view of one religious group onto all others. This political agenda is the creation of a theocracy – an attack on pluralism, religious freedom, and ultimately, democracy itself.

CHRISTIAN CIVIC FOUNDATION OF ARKANSAS

8300 Geyer Springs Road, Suite 201
Little Rock, AR 72209

Executive Director: Larry L. Page
Associate Director: Bob Hayes

Formed in 1959, the Christian Civic Foundation focuses on pornography, gambling and alcoholic beverages. In 1989 the foundation enlarged its agenda to deal with "attacks on the traditional family, abortion, euthanasia, secular humanism and other matters adversely affecting the morality of society." They work closely with organizations such as Family, Life, America and God (FLAG) and the Family Council.

They were active in the 1992 Legislature on numerous issues including resisting efforts to repeal the sodomy law and fighting efforts to include gays and lesbians in the civil rights bill.

The Christian Civic Foundation has a companion organization, the Christian Civic Action Committee, which is designed to serve as a legislative action organization that lobbies for the passage of laws that "uphold traditional values and will oppose legislation which will be harmful."

In 1994, the Christian Civic Action Committee took the lead in organizing opposition to three gambling-related ballot initiatives. All measures were stricken from the ballot prior to the election.

Little Rock, January 19

The owner of a Little Rock adult book and video store agreed to close the store's doors for good within 60 days in exchange for a fine and probation. Larry Page, director of Christian Civic Foundation, said "There's no need to stop now. The organizations (and their representatives) sponsoring the event were Operation Rescue National (Rev. Flip Benham), the Pro-Life Action Network (Joe Scheidler), and Rescue America (Don Treshman). They targeted four clinics in Little Rock and also demonstrated at the home of at least one clinic director.

Counter-demonstrations were organized by a coalition of 25 Arkansas groups. The Alliance held clinics for training in nonviolent defense techniques for counter-demonstrators with the help of members of the Feminist Majority, a groups based in Los Angeles.

Thirty anti-abortion demonstrators were arrested for blockading a clinic door. Of the 19 men, nine women, and two girls (ages 13 and 14) who were arrested, only three people were Arkansas residents. It was estimated that more than two-thirds of the anti-abortion protesters were from out of state. No women were denied access to clinics during the demonstrations. Little Rock police recorded the blockade with video cameras to provide evidence to submit to U.S. Attorney Paula Casey for consideration of charges under the FACE law. Ft. Smith, October 13

Clinton Thomas sued the Ft. Smith School District in U.S. District Court seeking reinstatement of advertisements for his store, Talisman, in the Northside High School newspaper The Grizzly. Thomas is a Wiccan and said that the books in his store address the culture and history of various religions and lifestyles. In 1993, the School District banned his advertisements from the school newspaper citing "overwhelming complaints" and an unpaid account. Thomas claims that the School District infringed on a shop owner's constitutional right to religious tolerance.

U.S. District Judge Jimm Larry Hendren Ruled that school officials have no obligation to take advertisements because the paper is not a public forum but serves as an educational tool. Thomas' attorney, Greg Karber, filed an appeal that will be heard in the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis, Missouri. A three-judge panel will review all arguments and will rule on the case by mid-1995.

Booneville, December 2

Clara Wagner, 17, stopped attending classes at Booneville High School to protest the daily reading of a Bible verse. For at least 30 years, school officials allowed student office workers to choose a Bible verse to "motivate and encourage students."

Wagner missed 66 days of school and her parents, Carolyn and William Wagner, were charged with violating the state's compulsory attendance law. Judge Paul X. Williams, Jr., of the Booneville Municipal Court, ruled that the Booneville schools must stop the reading of Bible passages in its daily bulletins. Williams also fined William and Carolyn Wagner $500 each, with $250 each suspended. In his ruling, Williams said "there is no place" for religion in a public school setting.

The school stopped the Bible passages in the daily bulletins on November 28th. However, students initiated a before-school Bible-study group on school grounds.

Carolyn Wagner said that she and her daughter will move out of state so that Clara can attend public school. She claimed that the Wagners have been harassed by local residents, including receiving a letter placed in their mailbox which contained the message "Stop or suffer in the name of Jesus."

Little Rock, December 3

Secretary of State Bill McCuen allowed the wooden Nativity scene to be exhibited inside the Capitol. McCuen said it was part of a craft show and sale held at the Capitol.

Earlier in the year, 25 clergymen signed a statement urging McCuen not to erect the Nativity scene at the Capitol as he had done in previous years.

Bentonville, December 13

Some 21 people attended a preliminary organizing meeting for the new Benton County chapter of the Christian Coalition. Skip Gallagher, a local coordinator, said that, ultimately, the group would like to identify enough pro-Christian Coalition voters to influence school board elections and be a factor in the county's politics.

Our Mission...

Our goal is social change or, as the poet Adrienne Rich writes, "the transformation of the world." We believe this world can be changed to become a place of peace and justice for all women.

We take risks in our work; we take unpopular stands. We work for all women and against all forms of discrimination and oppression. We believe that we cannot work for all women and against sexism unless we also work against racism, classism, ageism, anti-Semitism, heterosexism and homophobia. We see the connection among these oppressions as the context for violence against women in this society.

We are concerned in particular about issues of importance to traditionally underrepresented women: poor women, aged women, women of color, teenage mothers, lesbians, women in prisons, etc. All are women who experience discrimination and violence against their lives.

We are committed to working multi-culturally, multi- racially, and to making our work and cultural events accessible to low income women. We believe that women will not know equality until they know economic justice.

We believe that a few committed women working in coalition and in consensus with other women can make significant change in the quality of life for all women.

Transformation is published six times every year.

In each issue, members and volunteers receive analysis of contemporary issues, information about Women's Project upcoming events and activities, book reviews, and more.
